

Our Peer Review Details for Publications

Being a prominent publication, we always try to maintain the quality and integrity of all of our publications. Our professional reviewers conduct a double-blinded peer review process throughout the submitted papers. Here are the details of our peer review process:

Initial Screening

Our initial screening process starts right after submitting your paper through our website. We assess the paper based on its size and format to ensure it comes with our specific guidelines. If the paper fails to follow our APA format and guidelines, it cannot pass to the next stage. So, the paper must come with the format we require to be accepted for the peer review process.

Assigning Reviewers

We have highly qualified reviewers based on their knowledge and expertise in the relevant field to conduct our peer review tasks. Their integrity and ability to assess papers without any biases provide extra credentials in their qualification. From analyzing the papers to selecting areas of improvement, they maintain equality and integrity in our peer review process.

Peer Review

As soon as the paper passes the initial screening stage, we send it to the peer review team to conduct an in-depth analysis of the submitted papers. They first check the paper's clarity, originality, and relevancy to the conference topic. Any form of plagiarism, or modification of other works leads to rejection in this process. Finally, they examine the source and methods followed throughout the research.

Revision and Editing

Once our reviewers complete the review process, we receive detailed feedback, including areas for revision and improvement of the papers. In this stage, we decide whether to accept, reject, or suggest a modification to the paper we get from our reviewers. However, if the paper requires revision, we contact the authors to inform them of the reviewers' comments and suggestions for improvement.

Final Approval

After we receive the revised version of the paper, we will conduct a final analysis to ensure the paper is free from any issues. Once this analysis is complete, we will make the final decision on whether to approve it for our journal or not. If the paper is publishable for our journal, we schedule it for the Journal of Global Business Management and Economics (JGBME) publication.
